Abstract: Based on published records, in Turkey 3 species of Anthocerotopsida, 163 species and intraspecific taxa of Hepaticopsida and 721 species and intraspecific taxa of Bryopsida are recognised. They are listed in alphabetical order in a reference list to achieve a certain standardisation in the use of names. Including synonyms, in total 1731 names are treated. Critical taxa, doubtful records or taxonomical remarks are briefly discussed in 77 annotations. In addition, an up-to-date list of 219 references (from 1829 to January 2004) on the bryological literature of Turkey is given. The references are annotated and provide information on content, especially on the new taxa published in the older literature.

Key Words: Anthocerotopsida, Bryopsida, check-list, Hepaticopsida, literature, nomenclature, taxonomy, Turkish bryophytes

Türkiye Biryofitleri - Güncel Literatürden Sinonimlerle Birlikte, Açıklamalı Referans Liste ve Türkiye Biryolojik Literatürünün Açıklamalı Listesi

Özet: Yayımlanmış kayıtlar temelinde, Türkiye'den 3 Anthocerotopsida türü, 163 Hepaticopsida ve 721 Bryopsida taksonu belirlenmiş; isimlerin kullanımında belirli standardı sağlamak için alfabetik olarak bir başvuru listesinde sıralanmışlardır. Sinonimlerle birlikte, toplam 1731 isim işlem görmüştür. Kritik taksonlar, kuşkulu kayıtlar veya taksonomik vurgular, 77 açıklamada kısaca tartışılmıştır. Ek olarak, Türkiye biryolojik literatürü üzerine yapılmış 219 referansın (1829'dan Ocak 2004'e) güncellenmiş bir listesi verilmiştir. Referanslar açıklamalı olup, özellikle yeni taksonların yayımlandığı eski literatür hakkında bilgi sağlayıcıdır.

Anahtar Sözcükler: Anthocerotopsida, Bryopsida, çek-list, Hepaticopsida, nomenklatur, taksonomi, Türkiye Biryofitleri

Introduction

The present reference list, a new check-list for Turkish bryophytes and annotated list on the bryological literature of Turkey, is submitted as a first step towards a bryophyte flora of Turkey. The aim of the work is to enumerate as accurately as possible all acceptable species of bryophytes known from Turkey, to achieve a certain standardisation in the use of names, which is urgently needed. At the same time, it replaces the older check-lists of Çetin (1988a, 1988 b) and Frey & Kürschner (1991) and the first annotated reference list on the bryophytes of the Near and Middle East including Turkey (Kürschner, 1997) that today are out of date.

Reference list of Turkish bryophytes

The reference list of Turkish bryophytes is confined to names of species, as well as intraspecific taxa (subspecies, varieties), and includes all names hitherto published in the literature relevant for Turkey. The list contains 3 species of Anthocerotopsida, 163 species and intraspecific taxa of Hepaticopsida, and 721 species and intraspecific taxa of Bryopsida, which are arranged strictly in alphabetical order, to make finding a taxon easier. Including synonyms, in total 1731 names (genera, species, subspecies, varieties) are treated.

The nomenclature follows Koperski et al. (2000), in extra-European taxa Grolle & Long (2000) for the Hepaticopsida, and Corley et al. (1981) and Corley & Crundwell (1991) for the Bryopsida. In a number of genera (e. g., Amblystegium Schiffn., Bryum Hedw., Cratoneuron (Sull.) Spruce, Grimmia Hedw., Gymnocolea (Dumort.) Dumort., Jungermannia L., Palustriella Ochyra, Tortula Hedw., or Syntrichia Brid.) there exist in the recent literature conflicting opinions on particular species and synonyms. In these cases the opinions of specialists have generally been followed.

Authors' citations are given in full, except when the describing (or combining) author wrote in a publication by another author (in citations), where the name following in is omitted. Author abbreviations follow Brummitt & Powell (1992) for the most part. Important changes are C. Müll. → Müll. Hal., and K. Müll. → Müll. Frib. (cf. Ludwig et al., 1996), as well as the correct citation of B. S. G. or B., S. & G. for Bruch, Schimper & GümbeL, the authors of the Bryologia Europaea (Bruch et al., 1836-1855). As GümbeL has acted only as an illustrator, all taxa refer to Bruch & Schimper (Fascicles 1-43, 1836-1850) or Schimper only (Fascicles 44-65, December 1850-1856, mainly pleurocarpous mosses). Accepted names are given in bold and the complete nomenclatural reference is given additionally. Synonyms are given in italic only and indented, followed by an indication (arrow) of the correct and accepted name (not italic).

In 77 annotations (indicated as numbers in square brackets), the taxonomy, nomenclature and synonymies of critical taxa are briefly discussed, based on recent literature sources.

Annotations

- 1 Recorded without locality data by Smith (1990)
- 2 var. anomala is only a poorly developed modification of the typical taxon (cf. Düll & Meinunger, 1989)
- 3 An unknown taxon reported erroneously for Turkey by Bornmüller (1931) (Grolle, pers. comm.)
- 4 A critical taxon, treated as a synonym to G. inflata by some authors (Grolle & Long, 2000)
- 5 A north American taxon, doubtfully recorded for Turkey by Schiffner (1909). The record probably refers to J. javanica
- 6 Including Nardia handelii Schiffn. var. flaccida Schiffn., a doubtful taxon (Vánia, 1974)
- 7 According to Gradstein & van Melick (1996) and Dirkse et al. (1999) synonymous to L. bantriensis
- 8 According to Engel & Schuster (1984), the genus Lophocolea is synonymous to the genus Chiloscyphus
- 9 A critical taxon, may be without taxonomical value. Recorded for Turkey by Schiffner (1909).

- 10 Incl. var. ulvula (Nees) Gottsche, a doubtful taxon
- 11 Based on isoenzyme analysis (Boisselier-Dubayle et al., 1998) only a hybrid between P. cordaeana and P. platyphylla of no specific rank
- 12 Known only from the type (Schiffner, 1908)
- 13 A very variable taxon. The recognition of intraspecific taxa is doubtful and needs further investigations
- 14 The recognition of the intraspecific taxa is difficult. A. serpens var. serpens and var. juratzkanum therefore are treated as synonyms by some authors (cf. Frey et al., 1995)
- 15 The recognition of intraspecific taxa is critical and needs further investigations.
- 16 According to Robinson & Ignatov (1997), B. laetum is the correct name for the European B. oxycladon (oxycladum)
- 17 Contrary to Corley et al. (1981), B. olympicum Jur. is not accepted as a species, but synonymous to B. velutinum var. salicinum (Düll, 1985, 1995; Koperski et al., 2000)
- 18 A critical taxon which needs further investigations
- 19 Incl. B. capillare var. macrocarpum Huebener, a taxon of no taxonomical value
- 20 Ochi (1982), Ochi & Ochyra (1986) and Eddy (1988) have pointed out that the oldest name for a plant showing the characters of B. bicolor and B. dunense is B. dichotomum, based on a type specimen from New Zealand. This view is supported by Holyoak (2003)
- 21 A critical taxon. According to Blockeel & Long (1998), it is synonymous to B. caespiticium var. imbricatum
- 22 A critical taxon, closely related to B. pallens.
- 23 It was recorded by Nyholm (1993) without locality information: A new locality for the taxon is given: Niğde, Aladağlar, Narpız Boğazı, 2250 m, on limestone rock, leg.: P. Hein, 15 Aug. 1992 (A283)
- 24 The taxon is accepted by Hedenäs (1997a) as an own species
- 25 Grimmia pitardii L. Corb. was placed into the genus Campylostelium by Maier (1998). But recently Greven (2003) stated that, it can be maintained

- better in Grimmia, on account of several characters which it shares with Grimmia
- 26 A mainly tropical taxon (cf. Burley & Pritchard, 1990), doubtfully recorded for Turkey by TonguĀ-YayintaĀ (2001)
- 27 A new combination seems to be necessary for this taxon. If valid, it should be related to Eurhynchium crassinervium
- 28 C. molluscum is exceedingly variable. Most of the intraspecific taxa are poorly marked, as intermediates between it occur. The status of the varieties therefore is doubtful and experimental studies are required
- 29 C. polycarpum and C. strumiferum can be distinguished only by sporophyte morphology. As within a population both type, as well as intermediates occur, a separation on a species level is doubtful
- 30 Incl. var. muticus (Brids.) Brid., which is only a habitat modification (Düll & Meinunger, 1989; Zander 1993)
- 31 Based on molecular data (Stech, 1999), the species is referred recently to the genus Dichodontium
- 32 var. flavescens can be hardly separated from the type species and intermediate forms exist. It normally occur in montane habitats (cf. Nyholm 1986)
- 33 Incl. var. tortile (Schrad.) I. Hagen. The taxonomic value of this variety is doubtful
- 34 Recorded erroneously for Turkey by Schiffner (1908) (cf. Zarnowiec, 2001)
- 35 Hedenäs (1997 b) treats D. capillifolius as a synonym of D. longifolium. Recorded erroneously for Turkey by Henderson (1957) (cf. Zarnowiec, 2001)
- 36 Incl. var. leptodon Lindb. The taxonomic value of this variety is doubtful, as several intermediate forms exist
- 37 The recognition of intraspecific taxa is doubtful and needs further investigations
- 38 The recognition of intraspecific taxa is doubtful and needs further investigations
- 39 Based on molecular studies (Stech & Frahm, 1999), this taxon should be placed in the genus Rhynchostegiella
- 40 In contrast to Corley et al. (1981), F. bambergeri is accepted as a species (cf. Koperski et al., 2000)
- 41 According to Pursell (1997), F. limbatus is synonymous to F. crispus
- 42 A new combination seems to be necessary for this taxon. If valid, it should be related to Fissidens dubius
- 43 According to Bruggeman-Nannenga & Pursell (1995), F. algarvicus is synonymous to F. curvatus
- 44 Known only from the type, as Rhynchostegium haussknechtii Jur. (Juratzka & Milde, 1870) transferred to Fontinalis by Ignatov (1995)
- 45 According to Crum (1994) and Greven (1999), G. apiculata is synonymous to G. fusco-lutea
- 46 According to MuĀoz (1998) and Greven (1999), G. affinis is synonymous to G. longirostris
- 47 Known only from the type. According to Greven (1995), the Greek G. meteorae Townsend is synonymous to G. nutans
- 48 Incl. var. persica Schiffn. According to MuĀoz (2000), this variety is of no taxonomical value
- 49 According to Greven (1995), G. poecilostoma is treated as a separate species
- 50 Incl. var. badia Limpr. According to Düll & Meinunger (1989), this variety is of no taxonomical value
- 51 Incl. var. filiforme Brid. This variety (or forma) is of no taxonomical value. The recognition of intraspecific taxa remains critical and needs further investigations
- 52 In accordance with Anderson et al. (1990), Blockeel & Long (1998), and Crosby et al. (1999), Leptodictyum is accepted as a genus (cf. also Hedenäs, 1990)
- 53 Known only from the type (Schiffner, 1913)
- 54 A new combination seems to be necessary for this taxon. If valid, it should be related to Pseudoleskeella
- 55 Incl. var. riparium (Mitt.) Husn. The taxonomic value of this variety is doubtful

- 56 Incl. var. scabrifolia Lindb. ex Limpr. The taxonomic value of this variety is doubtful
- 57 Incl. var. saxatile (Brid.) Bouzlay. The taxonomic value of this variety is doubtful
- 58 Incl. subsp. fallax (Bruch) Bertsch. The taxonomic value of this intraspecific taxon is doubtful
- 59 A new combination seems to be necessary for this taxon. If valid, it should be related to Oxystegus tenuirostris
- 60 Zander (1993) divided the genus into Tortula, Microbryum and Chenia
- 61 A critical taxon which needs further investigations
- 62 The taxonomic status of P. capillaris, which is treated as a synonym of P. arnellii by Nyholm (1998), remains questionable
- 63 According to Hedenäs (1990) and Stech & Frahm (1999), Platyhypnidium is accepted as an own genus
- 64 A xerotropical African species, doubtfully recorded for Turkey by Çetin (1988a)
- 65 A hybrid between P. aloides (male) and P. nanum (female) without an accepted name. Known in the literature as P. nanum var. longisetum (Hampe) Schimp.
- 66 A hybrid between P. aloides (female) and P. nanum (male) without an accepted name. Known in the literature as P. aloides var. minimum (Crome) Molendo
- 67 Recently, Guerra & Cano (2000) placed this species within the genus Protobryum, due to intermediate sporophyte characters between Phascum and Pottia
- 68 In accordance with Dirkse & Bouman (1995), R. litorea is accepted as an own species
- 69 According to Dirkse & Bouman (1995), the correct name of R. jacquinii and R. teesdalei is R. teneriffae (cf. also Blockeel & Long, 1998; Crosby et al., 1999)
- 70 A west-Mediterranean-Atlantic species of the R. riparioides complex (→ Platyhypnium rusciforme) which is erroneously recorded for Turkey by Yayıntaş & Erdağ (1995)
- 71 Niğde, Aladağlar, Narpız Boğazı, 2550 m, on calcareous rock, leg.: P. Hein, 17 Aug. 1992 (A357)
- 72 The taxonomical concept follows Blom (1996, 1998)

- 73 In accordance with Düll (1994) and Brassard (1979), T. comata is included in the variety excurrens
- 74 The recognition of intraspecific taxa remains critical and needs further investigations (cf. Zander, 1993)
- 75 Incl. var. brevifolium (Müll. Hal.) Bruch & Schimp. and var. elatum Schimp. The taxonomic value of these varieties remains doubtful
- 76 The recognition of intraspecific taxa remains critical and needs further investigations
- 77 The recognition of intraspecific taxa remains critical and needs further investigations

List of Turkish bryological literature, arranged in alphabetical order of authors

Since the publication of the first annotated reference list on the bryological literature (Kürschner, 1997), intensive collecting activities by Turkish bryologists took place (for the current state of knowledge see Erdağ & Kırmacı, 2003), increasing the number of bryological publications from 101 in 1997 to 219 now. Many new records for Turkey or to the 'grids' adopted from Henderson's grid-square-system (Henderson, 1959-1961b) were reported, which complete our knowledge of the distribution and occurrence of the different taxa within the country, and one species, Cinclidotus bistratosus (Kürschner & Lübenau-Nestle, 2000), was described as new to science. In addition to these floristic papers several studies on the different bryophyte communities of Turkey were published, which give a first impression of the bryophytic vegetation, the communities and syntaxonomic and synhierarchic affinities, the ecology and habitat requirements of single taxa, and the phytogeographical relationships. All these publications, together with the following annotated list of references can be seen as a step toward a future bryophyte flora of Turkey, which is urgently needed for a better understanding of the phytodiversity and the ecology of this remarkable but often neglected group of plants.

The reference list gives a complete citation of each title, arranged in alphabetical order of authors and then chronologically following the first author. It includes all publications, from the early beginning in 1829 (F. A. Müller, p. 390, description of Grimmia nutans Bruch, which was collected by M. Fleischer on rocks near İzmir), the early collection phase of C. Haussknecht 1865, 1868 (cf. Juratzka & Milde, 1870), C. F. Forsyth-Major 1886 (Samsun Dağ, cf. Barbey, 1890), P. Sintenis 1894 (cf. Schiffner, 1896), and J. Nemetz 1894-1897 (İstanbul area, cf. Fritsch 1899), to January 2004. The journal names are given in full to make a finding them in library catalogues or on the Internet easier. The references are annotated (the annotations are placed in square brackets [ ]) and provide short information on the content such as new records, new species or new varieties, if keys to species are given, if locality data are included or descriptions, illustrations or distribution maps are given. Especially for the older publications, difficult to obtain and/or not well known by Turkish bryologists, this list may be a helpful addition as a stimulus for future work.

Inevitably some references will have been overlooked. This may be true especially for monographs and taxonomic revisions, which often include hidden locality or collection data from Turkey, but also for some publications published in private or only locally distributed journals. Nevertheless, we hope that the bibliography is more or less complete and adequate to enable a user to locate quickly such titles as seem appropriate to his or her requirements.
